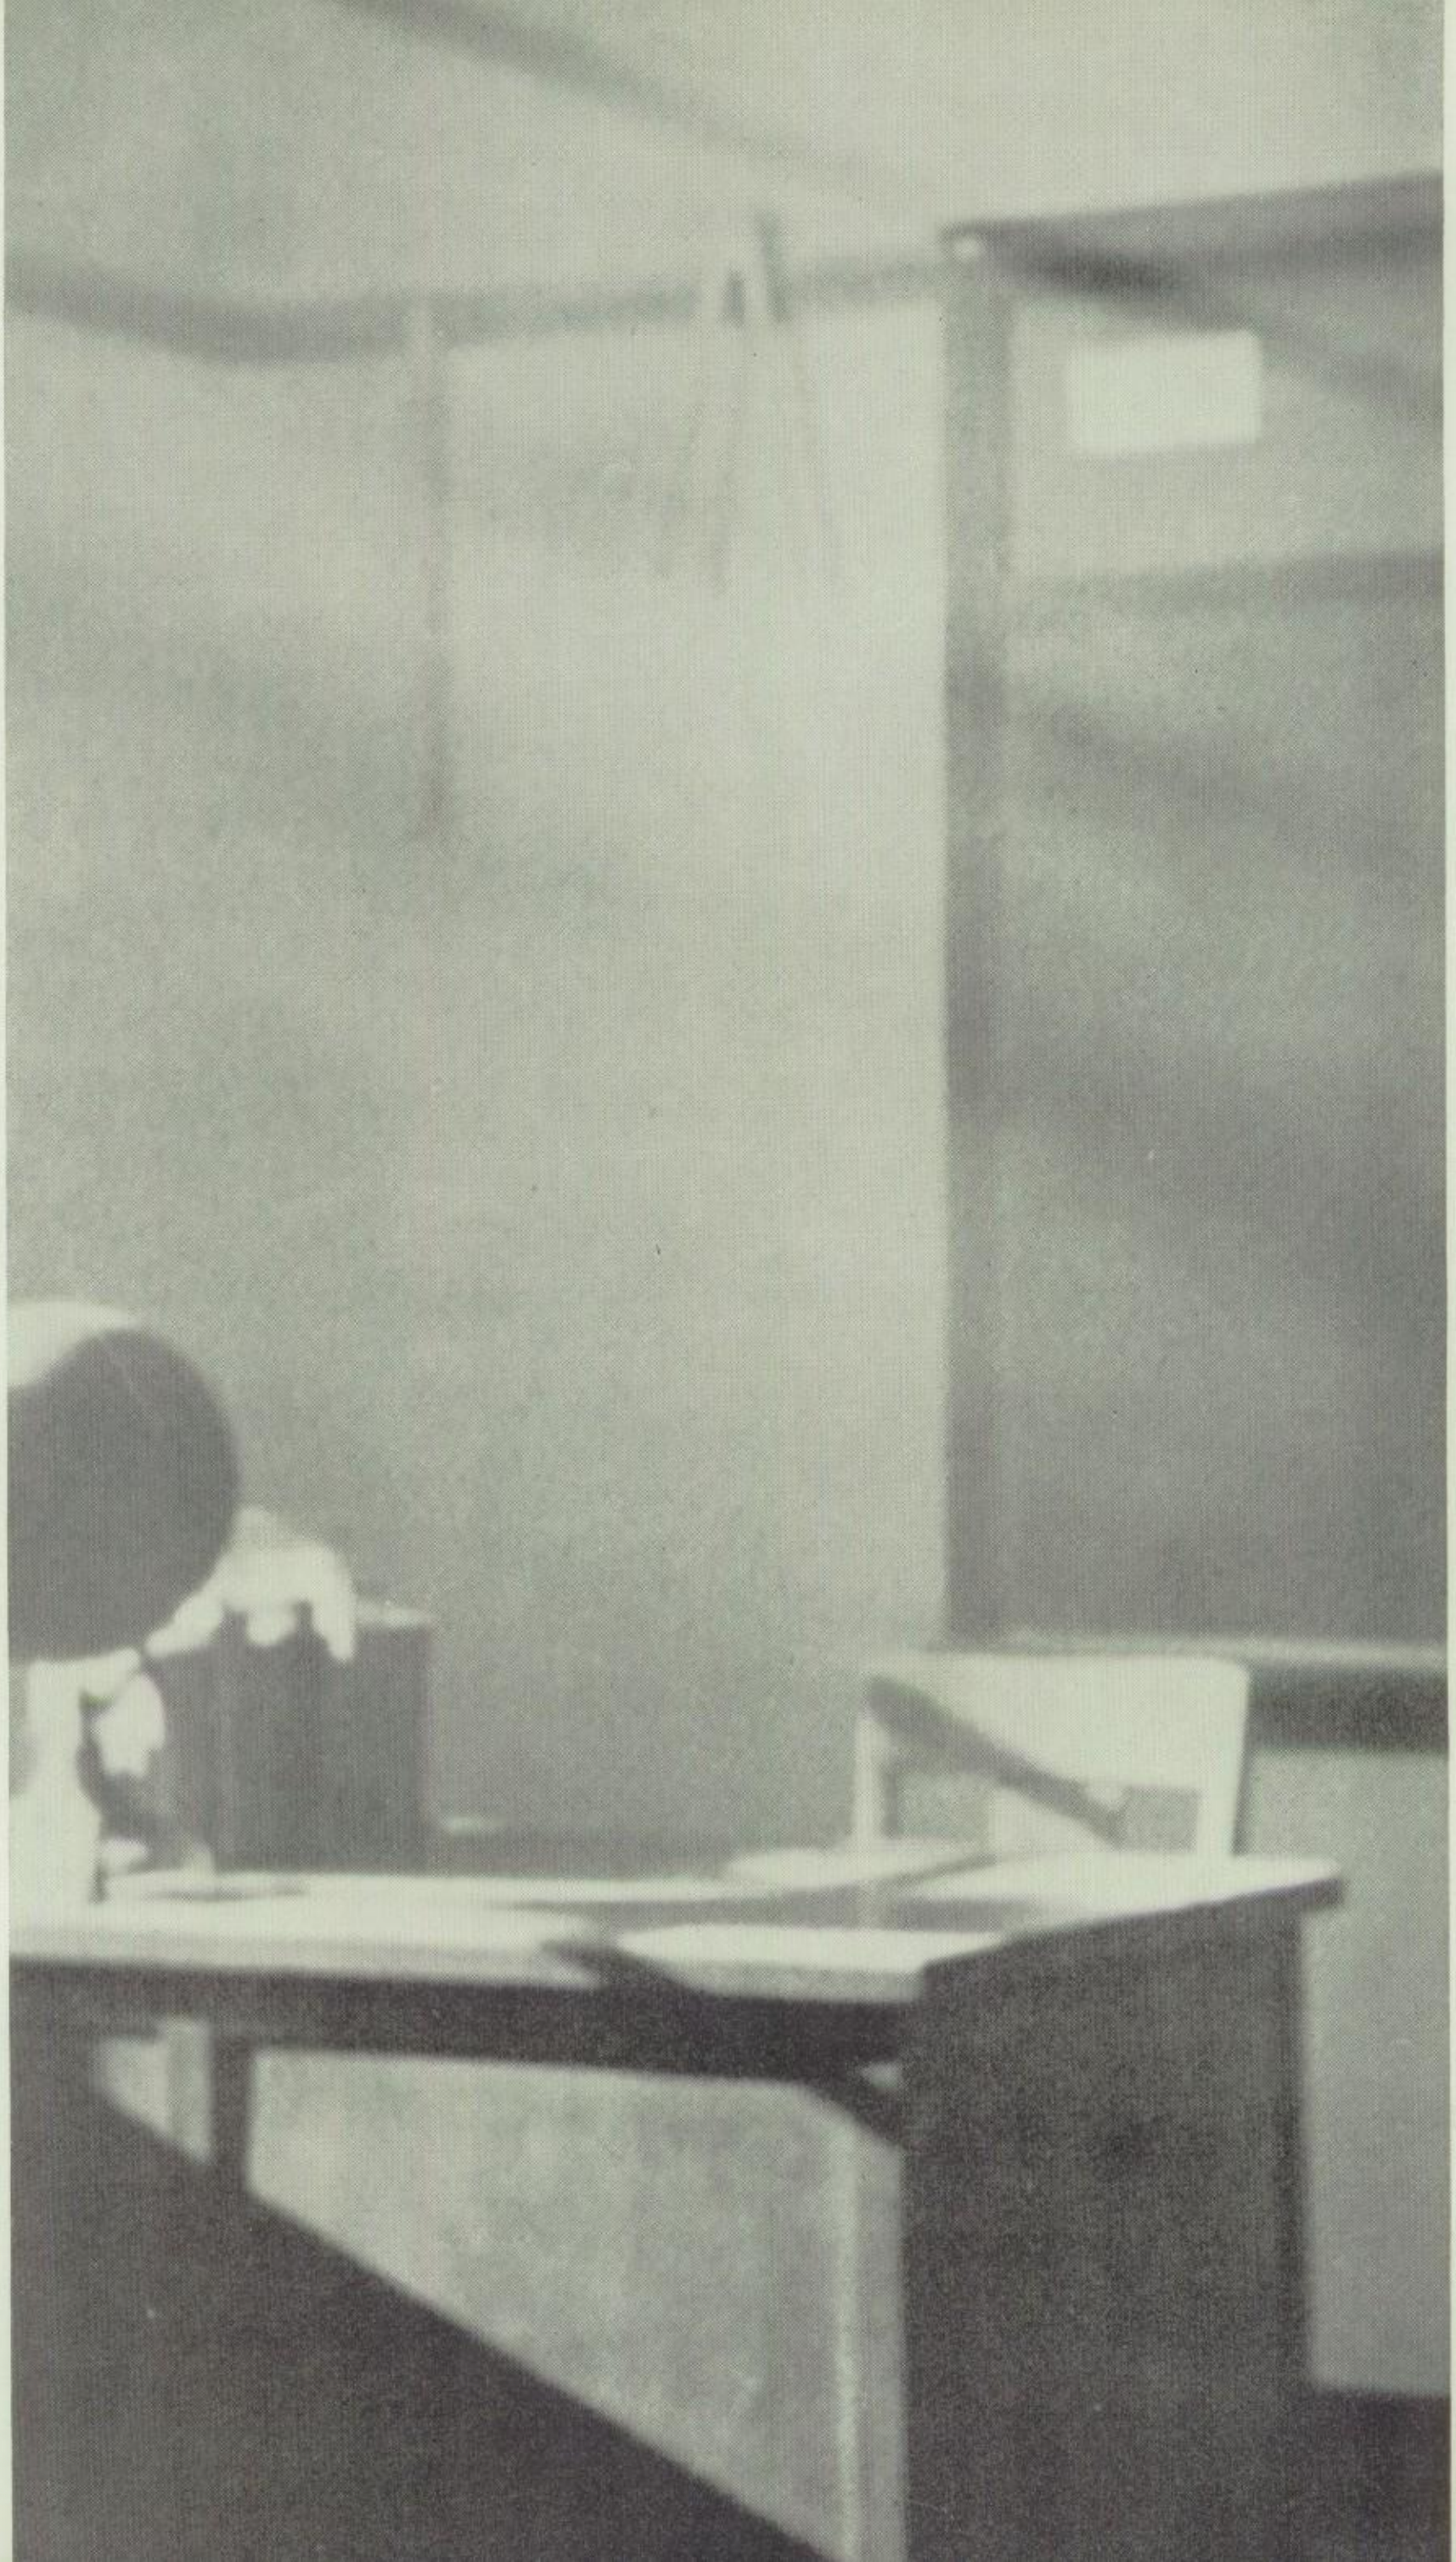
THEME

THE windows around us shed light on all of our activities and thus enable us to carry them to completion. To draw a parallel, we may consider our teachers as windows, windows that open up new fields of interest and awaken in us a sense of the responsibility that we must face in our future years. As we, the seniors, look back on our high school careers we begin to realize how little we have appreciated the fine work our teachers have been carrying on, but at the same time we do begin to realize that in the future we shall more and more appreciate the fine background we have received from these "windows of learning" despite our indifference and lack of interest during our six years in Walnut Hills High School.

We, the staff, have therefore chosen windows as our theme; not literally, but as symbols of education and culture which has been brought to us through the patience and the untiring perseverance of our first "windows of learning", our teachers.



WHEN Death enters a seemingly secure situation and claims one of our friends, the place which that person formerly occupied is left unbelievably empty. Her habits, her actions, her duties, her influence, are all sorely missed by those who were connected with her; and her spirit lingers with us long after her person leaves us. When she dies we realize with a start how much a part of our life she was. . . .

It is with this feeling in mind that the editors and the staff dedicate the 1941 Remembrancer to the memory of Miss Alma Wuest, who died Saturday, November 16, 1940. May her spirit remain with us forever as a part of the Walnut Hills High School that she loved.

WE PURSUE OUR STUDIES

In our six years of study at Walnut H

11th GRADE

WHEN we entered Walnut Hills five years ago we felt quite small and insignificant, but now the time has come when we must take up the duties and responsibilities of being seniors. We must apply ourselves to carrying on the long standing traditions and precedents set by the classes of former years. If we can manage the affairs of the school as well as the seniors of other years, we will feel that we have done our part in keeping Walnut Hills High School in its unique and respected position.
